Changing a classroom from using traditional teaching techniques to a blended learning environment is a natural step for educational technology integration. However, it’s not as easy as it sounds. This session will share the ups and downs of a 6th grade classroom’s semester long journey of switching to a blended learning environment. It will explore whether or not student achievement, engagement, and behavior levels were effected by the change and its outcomes.

Presenter: Amy Hunt