This session will focus on the types of engagement activities that occur in a blended learning classroom. Participants will have the opportunity to interact with two expert blended learning teachers who will share their experience in planning, monitoring progress, and designing activities to enhance student pathways to learning. They will share how this format leads to individual growth and progress. Models of how students access learning via Blackboard and engage in cooperative group and individual learning activities will be available to those attending this session, as well as opportunities to explore the learning management system design.

Presenter: Irma Brasseur-Hock
Co-Presenters: Paula Barr and Kaitlin Lugo