

Pam Leitzell

Independent Professional Development Leader | Florence, AL

Pam has worked in various projects across the United States helping schools successfully implement SIM through a focus on the Content Literacy Continuum. She is currently working as project manager of North Carolina's Statewide CLC Initiative. Prior to her work as a consultant, Pam worked in the public school systems teaching special education and serving as a secondary special education coordinator. She was a school improvement leader in her home district of Holland, Michigan where she helped to initiate a district-wide CLC project, which eventually earned Holland Public Schools the SIM Impact Award. Pam is also a past recipient of the SIM Leadership Award. She received her M.A in Special Education at West Virginia University.
