

Laura Marsden

Literacy Consultant | Division of Exceptional Children, North Carolina
Department of Public Instruction | Raleigh, NC

Laura currently works in the Division of Exceptional Children at the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction in the Program Improvement and Professional Development section as a literacy consultant where she co-leads the adolescent literacy and coaching work of the state improvement project. Laura has over 15 years of professional experience working in the field of social services and education. Prior to her time in the classroom, Laura worked in supported employment, behavior outreach, and child protective services through non-profit organizations with at risk youth and families and woman with dual diagnosis of substance abuse and mental illness. It was while working in this field that her passion for literacy education was discovered. Laura has worked as an Exceptional Children teacher at both the elementary and high school level in Florida, Colorado, and North Carolina. From the classroom, Laura went on to work as an Exceptional Children Curriculum Specialist and Literacy Coach. She has presented at the North Carolina 65th Conference on Exceptional Children on the topic of coaching and fidelity. She earned her BA from Flagler College in St. Augustine, FL and her M.Ed. from Mars Hill University, in Mars Hill, NC.
